ECONOMIC SPEAKER: “Energy Market Outlook + Implications for Gas Compression” with Uday Turaga, PhD (ADI Analytics)

In this presentation, Uday Turaga, Founder & CEO of ADI Analytics, will share a forward-looking view of oil and gas markets and what today’s structural shifts mean for the natural gas compression industry. The talk highlights a growing divergence between oil, which faces persistent supply pressure and capital restraint, and natural gas, where demand is increasingly driven by LNG exports, gas-fired power, and new load growth from data centers. It also examines how geopolitical disruptions—including the Iran conflict and rising Middle East risk—are reshaping gas flows and LNG markets, reinforcing the strategic importance of reliable compression infrastructure.

Uday Turaga is Founder & CEO of ADI Analytics, a boutique consulting and advisory firm specializing in oil & gas, energy, and chemicals. He brings over 25 years of industry experience spanning ExxonMobil, Booz, ConocoPhillips, and ADI, with deep commercial and technical expertise across upstream, refining, power, and chemicals. Uday specializes in corporate strategy, market research, economic analysis, competitive intelligence, and technology assessment. He holds a PhD in fuel science from Penn State and an MBA from The University of Texas at Austin, and is a frequent speaker at global industry conferences.
